Mr Asia: Last Man Standing

Shepherd, James

It has been more than 30 years since the Mr Asia drug syndicate came apart, when the handleless, toothless body of Martin Johnstone was found dumped in a quarry in England. The members of the syndicate were responsible for a string of dead bodies all over the world and the importation of hundreds of kilograms of heroin and marijuana into Australia, New Zealand and Britain - and they made tens of millions doing it. In this never before heard story from the only surviving member of the syndicate, James Shepherd tells of Mr Asia's rise and fall in gritty, horrifying detail. This is not the flashy, glamourised account put forward in "Underbelly", but raw, unadulterated truth. As fascinating as it is horrifying, the real insiders account of the multi-million dollar, kill-or-be-killed world of our most notorious international drug syndicate.

Somewhere Down a Crazy River

Catchlove, Robyn

Robyn Catchlove wasn't destined for married life and two and half kid in the suburbs of Adelaide. So, in her early twenties, she walks away from a passionless marriage to seek out adventure and lead the life she always dreamed of. As a spunky 25-year-old, she meets her match, Les Coles, in balmy Cairns, and together they set about building the boat of their dreams. By the time the Jean King launches, Robyn and Les are fiercely in love and ready to take on the challenges of the professional fishing game. This is the start of a gripping eight-year sea journey set in the hallucinogenic tropics of Far North Queensland. It also takes Robyn deep into the heart of the exclusively male world of professional fishing. It is physical, tough, and often perilous, but Robyn won't give up until she has not just silenced, but completely won over, even her toughest critics.

War Dogs

Bryant, Shane and Park, Tony

In Afghanistan, sometime all that stands between coalition troops and death or serious injury is a dog. Highly trained dogs and their handlers search for improvised explosive devices or hidden weapons out on patrol with combat troops. It's a perilous job, often putting them right in the firing line, and making them high priority targets for the Taliban insurgents they're fighting.

Shane Bryant, a former Australian Army dog handler, has spent the past four years in Afghanistan working with elite American special forces alongside his faithful dog. 'War Dogs' is his story - a riveting account of the hidden war in the mountains and cities of the world's dangerous conflict, and the comradeship between man and dog that has saved numerous lives.

Kevin Rudd

Weller, Patrick

'Kevin Rudd: Prime Minister' is an in-depth account of Kevin Rudd's first term in office. Political scientist Patrick Weller has used unparalleled access to Rudd, his staff, friends and family, to create a compelling portrait of a man at the height of his powers.

Beginning with Rudd's childhood in rural Queensland, 'Kevin Rudd: Prime Minister' examines the people, places and politics that shaped him into the leader he is today. Patrick Weller offers a frank analysis of Kevin Rudd's leadership style and his government's first term in power. Thoroughly researched and engagingly written, 'Kevin Rudd: Prime Minister' is the definitive political biography of Australia's current leader.

I, Mick Gatto Uncut

Gatto and Noble

From a colourful character with an extraordinary life, 'Mick Gatto: My Story' promises to deliver all the makings of a fascinating biography and Australian true crime at its best.

In a unique partnership, Mick Gatto will write the book with experienced crime writer and bestselling author, Tom Noble, who wrote 'Neddy: The Life and Crimes of Arthur Stanley Smith'.

This is the story of a kid with a passion for boxing, the illegal gambling rackets that brought huge wealth to so few and ruin to so many, and it is the story of Australia's very own violent underworld. No book will offer a more brutally honest insider's account of the crime scene in Australia than 'Mick Gatto: My Story'.

Raising My Voice

Joya, Malalai

Malalai Joya has been described as the bravest woman in the world. As a teenager she worked as a woman's rights activist under the Taliban, running underground classes and clinics in her native Afghanistan that would have resulted in her torture and execution if she'd been caught. After the fall of the Taliban, Malalai was elected as one of the few women to represent her province at the first assembly to frame a new Afghan constitution. Here she dared to speak out against the crimes of the war lords, who - backed by the Americans - now ruled the country. Her public denunciation resulted in several attempts to assassinate her. She's outspoken, passionate and fearless - an extraordinary woman to emerge from decades of brutal and misogynistic repression. Her book and her voice are set to resonate around the world.

Morton and Lobez

NEW B FORMAT EDITION

'Gangland Australia' details the exploits of an unforgettable cast of villains, crooks and mobsters who have made up the criminal and gangland scene in Australia. One of Britain's top true crime authors, James Morton, is joined by barrister-turned-legal-broadcaster Susanna Lobez in this fast-paced examination of Australian organised crime. Tracing the developments in and the shifting dynamics of Australia's criminal underworld from the early 1800s until the Melbourne gangland killings of recent years, this is compulsive reading.

Stop Counting Calories and Start Losing Weight

Harcombe, Zoe

The Harcombe Diet is the result of 20 years of research trying to answer the question "Why on earth do we have an obesity problem, let alone an epidemic, when we want more than anything else in the world to be slim?" This research has led dietician and author Zoë Harcombe to several discoveries:

- The calorie theory (eating less = weightloss) is fundamentally wrong
- The current diet advice is actually the cause of the obesity epidemic. A better public health message to embed in people's minds is Eat Real Food
- The only way to lose weight is to work with your body, never against it

Longest Siege, The

Lyman, Robert

Beginning on 10th April 1941, and lasting for 240 days, the siege of Tobruk is a mesmerising tale of human endurance and heroism. It is an epic story of extraordinary resilience as the Libyan port's 24,000 defenders met increasingly desperate attempts by Rommel's Panzer divisions to break through the hurriedly thrown-up defences. It was a battle of bayonets and grenades against tanks, of David versus Goliath. The eventual allied victory came against overwhelming odds, plus the morale sapping knowledge that the defenders were surrounded on one side by the sea, and on the other by Hitler's men and machines. Tobruk was defended in the main by the Australian 9th Division, followed by the British 70th Infantry Division who then linked up with the advancing 8th Army.

59 Seconds

Wiseman, Richard

For years gurus, coaches and motivational speakers have urged people to improve their lives by changing the way they think and behave. Research has revealed that many of their techniques are ineffective. Visualisation exercises often hinder rather than help and group brainstorming produces fewer, and less original, ideas than individuals working alone. Richard Wiseman both explodes the myths of existing self-development techniques, and demonstrates that success may be less than a minute away...

Two years to 'Normal'

Leibovitch, Karen

In 2004 Karen Leibovitch was a busy mother of three young children, running a small counselling practice from home. But a routine visit to her GP led to a diagnosis of oral cancer, and within a matter of weeks Karen's life was irrevocably changed.

Surgery saved her life but left her with many challenges and a distressing sense of emotional disconnection from the family she loves. Desperate to find her way back, she is told it will take two years to regain what she has lost. The phrase two years to 'normal' becomes a barometer against which she measures her journey towards recovery.

Notes to a Young Surfer

Evers, Clifton

The beach has long been a privileged site in Australian culture; from Australian folklore to tourism advertising, men who surf are revered as 'bronzed gods' ready to struggle against the elements. For many men, surfing is a treasured way of life. In 'Notes to a Young Surfer', writer and surfer Clifton Evers tells the truth about surf culture, and the violence, misogyny, sex, racism, turf wars and homophobia that surfers practise every day. Part memoir, part social analysis, this book will reveal to readers the unwritten codes and rituals that rule all aspects of a surfer's life, from body image, to notions of national identity, politics and mateship. In light of the Cronulla riots, how does a surfer negotiate the racial and nationalistic issues that have now imprinted themselves onto that most Australian of spaces, the beach?

Empires and Barbarians

Heather, Peter

At the start of the first millennium AD, southern and western Europe formed part of the Mediterranean-based Roman Empire, the largest state western Eurasia has ever known, and was set firmly on a trajectory towards towns, writing, mosaics, and central heating. Central, northern and eastern Europe was home to subsistence farmers, living in wooden houses with mud floors, whose largest political units weighed in at no more than a few thousand people. By the year 1000, Mediterranean domination of the European landscape had been destroyed.

Possessing the Dead

MacDonald, Helen

In 1832, after a series of calculated murders in Edinburgh and London, British parliamentarians passed a new law to regulate how the country's medical schools could lawfully obtain bodies for dissection. The Anatomy Act's aim was to bring a halt to the grave-robbing and murders through which the schools had been tenuously supplied. But this controversial statute's deliberate ambiguity on many matters caused snatching of one kind or another to remain the pivotal means through which corpses were obtained for the rest of the century.
